

Transition Exeter

Facing the Unthinkable

How scientists and activists manage the disturbing reality of climate change

Thursday 24th November 7 pm

Exeter Community Centre

Talk and discussion led by Professor Paul Hoggett

Paul will discuss research on the contrasting ways climate scientists and activists have managed the anxiety, despair, hope, excitement and occasionally the trauma of their practice. Paul is one of the founders of the Climate Psychology Alliance which seeks to understand and work on the levels of denial that prevent action on climate change and initiate and support better discussion of the issue.

Further information gillwestcott@gmail.com 01647 24789

www.transitionexeter.co.uk

Paul Hoggett, is Professor Emeritus of Social Policy at UWE, Bristol. He is a psychotherapist registered with the British Psychoanalytic Council.

